Summary	In order to inform minorities about the welfare programmes being run for minorities by the Ministry of Minority Affairs, the Ministry of Minority Affairs has tasked the Centre for Advanced Studies Research &amp; Development (CASRD) unit of Delhi School of Professional Studies &amp; Research (DPSR), Rohini, Delhi - 110085, an affiliated college of G.G.S. Indraprastha University, Dwarka, New Delhi. Christians, Sikhs, Boudhs, Parsis, Jains, and Muslims are recognised as members of minority communities by the Ministry of Minority Affairs. As a result, the Ministry of Minority Affairs sponsors significant programmes like Nai Roshni, Learn &amp; Earn, Padho Pardesh, USTTAD, etc., through which trainees from the aforementioned minority communities can receive financial aid in the form of loans, grants, and scholarships for study both domestically and abroad. In order to assist minorities in starting small businesses, the Ministry also provides loans to them at incredibly cheap interest rates. The criteria and circumstances under which the loans must be repaid are also very lenient. A two-day conference with the aim of improving minority community members' awareness, comprehension, and knowledge of the numerous programmes conducted by the Ministry of Minority Affairs was scheduled for the 6th and 7th of January 2020 at IIS University, Jaipur, Rajasthan. The Conference will also be focused on the programmes the state of Jaipur's government offers for the state's minorities. It is being hosted by the Delhi School of Professional Studies &amp; Research (DPSR), Rohini, Delhi, under the sponsorship of the Centre for Advanced Studies Research &amp; Development (CASRD).
