Career Counselling

- Career Counselling is the pivotal cog in a student's journey. A good career counsellor makes the perfect roadmap for students and based on which they can achieve their goals. The career counsellor can give the right direction to the child alongside advising the parents to take up progressive decisions. The choice of career is based on the aptitude and interest of the child.
- It incorporates a range of options ranging from traditional courses such as Engineering and Medicine to modern ones such as Film-making and Design. Career Counsellors can up their ante with this course and they will have answers to all the possible questions asked by students.

Deciding you need to change jobs in order to feel complete is a big decision. After so many years stuck in one job, you may have little or no clue about what you wish to do. Your first career counseling session will be a meet-and-greet situation. In this first meeting, it is important to form a bond with your chosen professional. If this is not the case, you cannot hope to have a successful counseling or mentoring relationship.

In your first meeting, your counselor will get to know you. He will find out about your education, qualifications, and personal background. From here he will be able to go on to assess your strengths and weaknesses. If you have decided on a career you would like, he will be able to tell you what you need to do to achieve your goal.

It is also important to have enough time to both train for your new career and to continue working. Although it is the job of a counselor to push you to your limits, burnout is not what he is looking for. By setting realistic goals to achieve, you will be pushed to your hardest, but within realistic expectations. Once you have trained for the career of your dreams, the next stage is to secure a job. If your interview skills are rusty as you have not attended one for decades, your counselor can help here too. In fact, he will stay with you, pushing you to the limits until the day you start your new career.
