"Swachhta Pakhwada" was observed at Delhi School of Professional Studies & Research from 1st to 16th September, 2017. It was decided to reduce plastic waste in the campus, that scrap material must be disposed of and old records should be weeded out and that classrooms, faculty rooms, administrative rooms, corridors, common areas, kitchens, utensils, wash areas and toilets must be given special attention. Slogans related to "Swachhata Abhiyaan" were displayed in the Institution. In further regard to this, our students visited the nearby JJ colony and sensitized local people about the importance of cleanliness on campus. A special lecture was arranged for students of DSPSR in order to explain the importance of cleanliness and later sanitation products were also distributed to them. One plantation drive was also organized in the nearby area.
